

Sinclair Broadcasting's idea to have their stations air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is an improper use of the public airwaves. Instead of smear tactics against Senator Kerry, I would prefer to see no political statements or opinions presented.

How would it be if local stations aired programming that gave advertising advantage to Sinclair's adversaries? When media ownership doesn't play by fair rules, their license to use the public airwaves should be revoked.

Sincerely,
Grace Koehler
230 4th Ave. East
Wendell, ID 83355